

February 11, 2013

ID Inc. to Join Aerospace Hub at Dayton's Tech Town

Intelligent Decisions (ID), Inc., a recognized leader in federal IT solutions, will establish offices within the Ohio Aerospace Hub in Dayton's Tech Town technology park.

From the Tech Town location, ID will be able to collaborate with other companies and research organizations within the Hub. It will also have proximity to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, where the firm presently supports two programs.

Virginia-based ID was recently named to the prestigious Inc. 5000 list of America's fastest-growing private companies for the fourth time.

“Since 1988, Intelligent Decisions has been developing innovative information technology solutions to solve the most challenging requirements of our government clients, and this is the expertise that we will bring to the Ohio Aerospace Hub,” said Harry Martin, ID CEO.

The Ohio Aerospace Hub has a focused strategy on bringing companies based in aerospace, sensors, RFID, and cyber security to Dayton. The Hub has support from the City of Dayton, Montgomery County, the Dayton Development Coalition, CityWide Development Corporation and the University of Dayton Research Institute.

BizBites Archive